Eleven Blacks Scoured

By the Night Riders at Eddyville Early Sunday Morning

Eddyville, Ky. Feb 16 - Three hundred armed and masked men rode into this city this morning shortly after midnight. Before they left, an hour later, riding westward in a compact and military manner, they had whipped eleven men, shot up the town and terrorized the population. The peculiar feature of the outrage of the night riders is that it has no apparent motive, for none of the victims of their displeasure are connected with the tobacco business, either as grower or buyer.

As though to show their absolute contempt for the law, Judge Rucker, who presides over the Police Court, and who would have to act if the preliminary trials of any of the men, if they were arrested, was taken from his home after scores of bullets had been fired through the window, stripped to the waist on the bank of the Cumberland river, which flows through the town and brutally beaten with a cowhide whip. Judge Rucker was then permitted to return to his home, his hands and arms lacerated and bleeding, showing that the blows had not been dealt with a gentle hand.

With Judge Rucker were taken ten other men, seven of them negroes. Some of them were captured on the other side of the river and brought to the eastern side, where they were all whipped, together. Some of the men were dragged from their beds, and hastened to their punishment, without even being permitted to dress.

In addition to Judge Rucker, the white men who were whipped were Cecil Wood, former Town Marshal of Eddyville, J.H. Robertson, and Jeff Fralick, who conduct a livery stable. Of the negroes, John Holloway, and George Brewster have reported the details of their being whipped, and showed today the wounds that they received. The colored keeper of the restaurant was taken from his place of business, which he was just closing having remained open late Saturday night, and was whipped with the others.

In order that they might not be interfered with from the outside, the night riders took possession of the telephone exchange when they entered the city shortly after midnight and refused to permit the operators to answer any calls. They visited the residence of the Sheriff and the Town Marshal after they had shot up Judge Rucker's house, and warned them not to interfere, their leaders declaring that it "wouldn't be good for them if they didn't behave."

Today the town is still paralyzed with the shock of the raid, which had been to a large extent expected. Few are willing to talk of the affair, for many fear a repetition. The only explanation of the motive which the night riders had was that they were probably intending the destruction of tobacco in the vicinity of this, Lyon county, and wanted to intimidate the residents in order that their plans might be carried out without interference. Many of those here venture the opinion that their purpose has been this time already been accomplished.

As all the men were marked, they were not recognized. It is not known from what counties they came, but it is known that they rode into Eddyville from the east.

Notice

Owing to the fact that the general impression prevails, and has been scattered by our newspapers since the burning of our factory at Dycusburg that Mr. Henry Bennett was an employee of ours, we take this method of notifying the public that Mr. Bennett is not, nor ever has been, an employee or representative of E.J. O'Brien & Co. The only business relations we ever had with Mr. Bennett were to rent his factory, which we had engaged for the season, and which was under the management of Mr. W.B. Grove. Mr. Grove was our only representative and the factory at Dycusburg was the only factory we operated or the only business we had in that territory.

We understand that Mr. Bennett was engaged in buying tobacco at Dycusburg and Craneville, but beyond the fact that neither we nor Mr. Grove were connected with this business, we know nothing whatever about it.

The Soldiers and the Night Riders

Marion is now the home of about thirty soldiers, members of the Kentucky State Guard. She never had guests of that character before; there never was occasion for it before and it is hoped that the necessity for their remaining here is imaginary rather than real. However that may be, they are welcome guests at present, and from their gentlemanly bearing and deportment there is no reason to believe that there will be any change in that phase of the situation. It is easy enough to explain that they are here, but as to why they are here, an explanation presents some difficulties.

Heretofore the depredations of the night riders have been confined to other sections of the state, and it has been the understanding of the people here that it was the policy of the night riders to visit only such places whose affairs concerned them and to right only such grievances as seemed to them sufficient to warrant a visit for that purpose. As Crittenden county is not in the Dark Tobacco District, and as the work of the night riders has been confined to the territory of that association and the people here never having been antagonists to the purposes of the Dark Tobacco Association, it has always been the opinion of the citizens here who have been conversant with the situation, that there was not the slightest danger of a visit or attack upon this place from the organization commonly known as "night riders."

At present, there is not a tobacco buyer in Crittenden county. Nearly all of the 1907 crop of tobacco was pooled and disposed of through the stemming district of the Equity Society, and it is thought every acre of the 1908 crop is already pooled with the stemming district.

Notwithstanding all these facts, there is no denying that Marion never experienced such a fright as she had Monday a week ago. Within the two or three days before that time the night riders, presumably from Trigg, Christian or Lyon counties, had burned the tobacco factories of Bennett Bros. and A.H. Cardin, and said publicly at those places, as was reported here, that they intended to visit Marion; on Monday an unsigned and undated telegram was received here, confirming the intended visit of the night riders and saying that they would be here that night. The citizens were insistent that immediate steps be taken for protection and the county judge was appealed to, to apply to the Governor to have a company of troops here that night by a special train. It was presumed that the purpose of the reported visit of the night riders was to destroy the property of Mr. R.H. Kemp, who, until the Saturday before, had been an independent buyer of tobacco, but on Saturday had retired from buying tobacco and had pooled his 1908 crop with the stemming district, and it was assumed that the night riders were coming in ignorance of Mr. Kemp's changed attitude toward the association.

The result of Judge Blackburn's communication with the governor showed that it was impossible to send troops to Marion that night. Few of Marion's citizens slept during the long hours of that eventful night and none had easy pillows. Long as the night was, it did end and many of Marion's citizens came forth next morning surprised to find that there were as many houses in the town as there were the night before and the night riders had not come even in hearing distance.

On Tuesday it was known in Marion that information as to Mr. Kemp's alliance with the pool had been received in all those portions of the Dark Tobacco Districts that had been affected by his operations as a tobacco buyer; thus eliminating the only condition that could possibly be construed as inviting a visit from the night riders, and all of our people recognized and accepted the fact that there was no further danger from that source, and the fright vanished as quickly as it came upon us. All means taken for protection were abandoned and no further efforts were made to secure troops.

On Wednesday following, some of our discerning and ever-observant citizens noticed strangers on the streets and as each train came in during that and the next day they noticed the number of strangers seemed to grow and their presence soon became the talk of the town. Some who were more than wise, let their suspicion grow to the conviction that they were night riders in disguise, especially as the number of strangers continued to increase with each incoming train from that direction, but the leader, or at least the gentleman who claimed to be in charge of these strangers, twenty or thirty in number, soon took the people into his confidence and explained that he was here with his men, a party of engineers to make several hurried surveys of possible and feasible routes of a line for the L&N Railroad from Providence to Paducah. This served to sufficiently explain their presence as the coming of like parties for such purposes has been a common occurrence in Marion for the past several years.

It is a fact, however, that while the citizens were at first mystified and finally satisfied as to the identity of these gentlemen, the county judge was aware of their identity from the time of their arrival because Capt. Kriger, who came with the first party, and as the law required, immediately reported to him the presence of soldiers in disguise.

The county judge at once called Mayor Blue into his confidence and explained to him the situation and after going over all the facts and explaining them to Capt. Krieger, the Captain agreed with them that there was no need whatever of the retention of troops in Marion and upon the advice of the mayor and county judge he made immediate application to the Adjutant General for orders to withdraw; in due course of mail these orders came and on Saturday morning the troops were at the depot to take the train, with their baggage.

As each day during the week seemed to be striving to present a sensation excelling the preceding day, Saturday was not to be outdone, and its sensation was the climax. When Judge Blackburn came to the court house that morning he found a letter, painfully but carefully scribbled, threatening him with a skull and cross bone finish and signed, "Night Riders." It was soon discovered that several other citizens had received letters of similar character and purport. These notes bear numerous signs of having a home origin and it is the opinion of the judge and all who have seen them that the author or authors of the notes has a residence in Marion or hereabout. He, upon advice of citizens and authorities immediately sent a messenger to the depot, causing Capt. Krieger to postpone the departure of himself and men and by communicating with the Governor and Adjutant General procured permission for the troops to remain in Marion and in uniform and they are now here and their stay is indefinite.

There is still no apprehension that Marion or any citizen here would be attacked by any one from any of our neighbor counties, whether the troops go or remain, but the authorities came to the conclusion that in view of the excited or panicky condition of the people here it would be wise since the troops are here to keep them here for awhile.

While the forgoing is the statement of the known facts, there is still some mystery as to why the troops came here. The Captain, himself, is thought to be in ignorance of it. It is rumored that the Fire Marshal is in this section (continues...)

Dycusburg - On Saturday, June 13th, about 10 men and boys met at the Dycusburg cemetery and so nicely cleaned off the graves it surpasses any work of the kind in the history of Dycusburg. The faithful house wives and fair daughters prepared a most elaborate dinner in Kentucky basket-dinner style, and, at 11:30 a.m. sharp it was spread under the beautiful cedars in the northwest portion of the cemetery, where fully one hundred men, women, boys and girls gathered and informally partook in the tempting spread. However it was a hurried meal for a heavy storm cloud and wind threatened, with thunder and lightning. The people scattered to their houses and a heavy rain followed but every one seemed to enjoy the work and the dinner and home with a feeling that they had done a good work had been weought [sic].

Mrs. Bettie Bennett and Miss Georgie Boaz, of Kelsey, were guests of Mesdames Robt. Robinson and Owen Boaz, Saturday.

Attention to the Tobacco Growers of Crittenden County

You will observe by examining the constitution and by-laws of the stemming district tobacco Association, that each country in said district is requested to select one delegate from each magisterial district to form a county board for the purpose of transacting all business pertaining to the sale of dispositions of our 18 __ of tobacco. The chairman of said county board according to the constitution will be a member of the executive board of the district at Henderson. Therefore I request all tobacco growers to meet in their respective magisterial districts on Saturday, July 25th, 1908, at 2 p.m. and perform this important duty and those who are elected as delegates from the various districts in the county will meet at Marion on the first day of August, to organize a county board. Any competent man residing in your district who is a tobacco grower, is eligible to be a delegate, he is not required to be a member of any other organization other than the stemming district tobacco Association and if he has pooled his tobacco that makes him a member of that same magisterial district have two or more voting places for the benefit of those. I would suggest that the voters of Piney district meet at Iron Hill and the Marion district in which Squire James resides, will meet at tobacco factory near the depot, and Dycusburg district will meet at Frances, Union at Levias, Hurricane at Sheridan, Fords Ferry at their usual voting place, Bells Mines at Rosebud and Squire Postleweight district at the court house.

I would suggest that at each place of meeting that some tobacco grower call the meeting to order and state the object of the meeting then nominate some one for chairman the nominations for delegate will be in order after which the chairman will take the vote and the one receiving the most votes will be your delegate. Hoping this notice will be understood by all tobacco growers and that the delegates elected will have no selfish motives of their own, but the good of the Association at heart only. This notice will not appear in print but once, therefore keep it.
